PREFACE

The siddur has been part of the consciousness and soul of the Jewish people for hundreds of years. Our prayers have challenged us, comforted us, served as a vessel for our longings and bound us together as a community. These prayers express a view of spiritual reality and reveal the community's deeply held beliefs. The liturgy is also a spiritual tool to help us with our lives. In davenning with the siddur we strive to find a center of meaning; we strive to move ourselves along a path of holiness.

The traditional siddur is precious to us. We are profoundly attached to its words, its structure and its wisdom. In praying these words we move beyond ordinary time; we participate in eternity. We connect with our ancient past and with our extending future. Yet some aspects of the traditional liturgy present a barrier rather than serve as a vehicle in our religious explorations. We have found that we need to adapt the liturgy, to give voice to areas of our experience which have been silenced, and to revise aspects of the tradition which trouble us. The issue which has most engaged us in this process is the inclusion of women and women's experience. Other central issues we have begun to address include: ways of understanding God, good and evil, the relationship between Jews and non-Jews, and views of human nature. We view these concerns not only as central to our particular community, but also as core ethical and spiritual issues for our people.

In taking a close look at the liturgy, we are addressing some of the most basic questions about ourselves, God and the world. We recognize that the language of the siddur has the potential to express not only our concept of how the world is, but our vision of how it ought to be. Through the repetition of the prayers, we inspire and replenish ourselves with impressionistic, yet powerful, answers to our questions; we form and reinforce a world view. How mindful we must be, then, as we choose words for regular, set prayer.

As feminist Jews, we are committed to working for a world in which oppression is ever being undermined and transformed into justice. Religion can be a powerful force in helping or hindering this process of transformation. It is important to us to be conscious of the values which are promoted in our davenning. If, in our davenning, we retain and create life-affirming images and practices, and move away from damaging ones, we believe we can enhance our lives. The words and teachings we turn to and rely on in our times of need and openness have great impact on us. As we examined the language of traditional prayer, we arrived at the same insight that has been evolving in many communities: language that is politically inadequate is spiritually inadequate. We feel a need to integrate our political and spiritual beliefs, so that we can bring our whole beings to davenning, and not separate certain parts of our morality from our spirituality. Language affects consciousness, even though we are often not aware of this fact. The changing of pronouns, for example, not only points to institutional change for women (leading and participating equally in ritual), but also points to theological change, expanding our concepts of God in enriching and liberating ways. Our siddur, its words, its message, even its grammar, should affirm and strengthen our vision of a world which is moving towards redemption.

Our prayer is part of our pursuit of tikkun olam (the kabbalistic notion of repairing or transforming the world). The title of our siddur, Siddur Birkat Shalom, reflects our spiritual and ethical mandate. "Birkat Shalom" has a double meaning. It means "the blessing or prayer of the (Havurat) Shalom community," and it also means "the blessing of/for peace." We hope our davenning with Siddur Birkat Shalom will instill within us a sense of wholeness (shlaimut), and will inspire us to seek shalom wherever we are.

Another term we use frequently in our siddur, "mutkan," Hebrew for "adapted," contains the same Hebrew root as does the word tikkun. We use this word to indicate modifications we have made in the traditional text of a psalm or prayer. We selected this word to express our hope that in our process of adapting the liturgy, we perform an act of tikkun. When we render a prayer or psalm "mutkan" we intend a reparation of what is troubling in our prayers and in our consciousness, what is in need of transformation in our spiritual lives.

In preparing this siddur, we were also committed to freeing our spirituality from the "idolatry" of imaging God as exclusively male and hierarchical. Our religious experience is diminished when we worship only a part of God as if it were the whole. As we include additional names for the Holy One, we are expanding our understandings of God. We know that all human language is limited in its ability to convey ultimacy. No one image is God; there are innumerable images or notions that could potentially express the various aspects of God. We have been influenced by midrashic¹ and kabbalistic teachings which present multiple images and experiences of God within an overarching framework of the unity of God. This pluralistic, yet monotheistic view of God is even reflected in two of our traditional names for God, Adonai and Elohim, which are both in the plural (Adonai means "my Lords" and Elohim means "Gods"). As the poet has written, "Countless visions we have named You, through all visions, You are One." As the siddur continues to evolve, we hope that our explorations of God's multiplicity and oneness will strengthen our sense of the unifying spirit and the harmony that is inherent within each of us and in the world.

We are responding to a changing world view. The sacred task we have undertaken is to integrate traditional and feminist Judaism in making the liturgy reflective of our highest values. We draw from the wisdom and spiritual power of the past and the present. We are seeking to find fresh meanings in the traditional liturgy, and to add new insights from the experiences of our lives and the wisdom of our time. We consider Siddur Birkat Shalom be a continuation of the tradition of interpreting Torah. Though we were very reluctant to change the words of Tanakh (the Bible), especially Torah (the first five books), we needed to acknowledge our disagreements with the sacred text however painful it may have been. When we daven, we are not studying or quoting, we are making the words our own. Thus, we have maintained traditional teachings and forms as much as possible, in a creative balance and tension with the evolving beliefs and values that we also hold sacred.

Throughout the generations Jews have davenned, yearning for closeness with the Holy One. We have sought to praise and thank the Creator, and to open ourselves anew to the wonders of creation. We have expressed our joy, our pain and fear, and our hopes for a messianic era of justice and peace. Through prayer, we strive to perceive the sparks of the holy in every aspect of life, and to sense our connection with the universe around us and with the deepest parts of ourselves. We want to be inspired to fill our lives with good deeds.

We are grateful to the Holy One for giving us life and the capacity to reach out through our prayer and song. We join with the ancient psalmists, with our ancestors and our living communities in singing to God a new song. May davenning with Siddur Birkat Shalom draw us close to the One in whose presence we live; may it be a gateway to holiness for all who enter.

INTRODUCTION

In February 1984, eight members of Havurat Shalom gathered for the first meeting of the "Siddur (prayerbook, from Hebrew for "order") Project." The goal of the project was to create for our Havurah a siddur which would reflect our commitment to the traditional liturgy, as well as our shared perceptions of God and the world which differ from those of traditional Judaism. This volume, Siddur Birkat Shalom, contains the fruits of the years of study, discussion, writing, inspiration and criticism. It includes the complete Shabbat morning service as it is recited at Havurat Shalom (some prayers that are traditionally recited have been omitted as they are not recited at the Havurah).

Although the composition of the Siddur Project group has changed since we began working formally, we continue to find ourselves to be a microcosm of the Havurah membership with our various reactions to the experience of davenning. We are women and men, lesbian, bisexual and heterosexual [ed. note 2021: trans and nonbinary], with a strong commitment to feminism, and these qualities influence our relationship to the traditional siddur. Some of us have received excellent Jewish educations; others have rediscovered our Judaism only since coming to the Havurah. Some have converted to Judaism. The diversity of our group has been both an inspiration and a challenge: we have had to learn to trust each other and to work together to create a document that each member of the group can use as a siddur. We also have had to establish a process that would help us to accomplish the many types of changes we needed to make. Accordingly, the initial months of our work were dedicated to studying and analyzing the traditional Shabbat morning service. We then worked individually on revisions, translations and meditations, coming together to edit and criticize the new material. Our work was shaped by group discussions about a variety of topics including the nature of good and evil, our concepts of God, chosenness, feelings about gender, and the use and power of language.

We have focused on changing the Hebrew text, since we felt that enduring changes to the liturgy should be made in the original language of the prayers. We cling to a strong bond with the familiar Hebrew prayers, and a connection through time and space to the Jewish people. Still, we also feel the need for a new English translation, compatible with the changes we have made to the Hebrew — reflecting the richness and strength of the original Hebrew — but at the same time, less archaic.

Most of the major adaptations we made to the liturgy can be classified in the following areas:

Egalitarian language: The traditional Hebrew siddur uses masculine referential pronouns and specific nouns almost exclusively when alluding both to God (e.g., "melekh" — King, "Barukh atah" — Blessed [masc.] are You [masc.]) and to humans (e.g., "tzadik katamar yifraḥ" — a righteous [man] will flourish like the palm). Siddur Birkat Shalom contains masculine and feminine God-language and references to humans balanced equally for frequency of occurrence and relative importance (from a rabbinic point of view) of the prayer. With few exceptions, a single gender reference for God is maintained throughout each psalm or prayer; references to humans alternate wherever possible in order that each prayer address both males and females (please see "Notes on Gender Language" below for additional information about treatment of gender references in this siddur).

Images of God: There are many traditional images of God which we found inspirational (e.g., God as creator and sustainer, giver of life and Torah, God of compassion and loving-kindness). However, traditional references to God characterizing God as King, Judge, Father and dispenser of bountiful reward and devastating punishment raised questions for us. Siddur Birkat Shalom has chosen to retain some occurrences of traditional God-names, while changing or emphasizing others to extend the choices we have in opening ourselves to God. Additional names for God used in the siddur include: Source of Life ("Mekor ha-Hayim"), Our Mother ("Imenu"), and Life of the Worlds or Everlasting Life ("Hei ha-Olamim"). We have also included phrases portraying God as a nurturer, friend and teacher. Although the traditional word for God, "Adonai," is masculine, we have chosen to treat this name as both masculine and feminine, using pronouns for both genders in order to maintain our connection to our Jewish tradition which commonly uses this name as the most Holy.

Jews and non-Jews: An important component of traditional Judaism is the concept of Jews as the "Chosen People." An obvious corollary to this concept is that non-Jews have not been — and cannot be — "chosen" as well. Consequently, the traditional siddur states both implicitly and explicitly that the practices of non-Jews have less spiritual validity.

Havurat Shalom has clearly articulated the belief that there are many paths to God and that all peoples have been "chosen" by the Holy One in some way. Accordingly, Siddur Birkat Shalom affirms the chosenness of all people: "asher bahar banu im kol [instead of "mi-kol"] ha-amim" — who has chosen us with all other [instead of "from among all other"] nations. We have reframed prayers which traditionally portrayed non-Jews as simply witnessing the wonders that God performs for the Jews to portray non-Jews as having a more equal and participatory role (cf. Psalm 98).

Good and Evil / Reward and Punishment: Traditional liturgy views the interplay of good and evil in a way that seems simplistic in our time. God is portrayed as entirely good, the rewarder of the righteous (i.e., the Jews and the downtrodden) and the destroyer of the wicked (i.e., nations who oppress Jews, the rich and haughty). The liturgy largely fails to address the many difficult questions about good and evil which have confronted people throughout history: What is the role of God in evil? Why do righteous people appear to suffer in this world while evil people appear to prosper? Why must God destroy evil people instead of merely destroying the evil within them? We have begun to address these issues by changing the focus in some prayers from evil people to the evil within all of us, and we have eliminated references to evil altogether in other prayers. Siddur Birkat Shalom attempts to retain some references to divine retribution in the recognition that there are times when an individual needs to express feelings of anger and revenge. Resolutions to these quandaries continue to be a source of challenge.

Hierarchy: We were troubled by the concept of hierarchy as it relates to humans, God, and its expression in the traditional siddur. Some members found the pervasive concept of God as an authority figure troubling. Others felt a strong distaste for humans' uses and abuses of power, and the often oppressive hierarchies built into human social institutions. They rejected the extension of these systems into the God-human relationship (e.g., God as Master and humans as slaves), since this model, sanctioned as "divine," has been used to reinforce oppressive systems. Group members also perceived the traditional siddur to be emphasizing a view of God as transcendent at the expense of an additional notion of God as a more immanent, intimate Being.

Siddur Birkat Shalom expands the traditional notions of a transcendent God and an authoritarian God. It adapts some prayers to convey a sense of partnership and intimacy between God and people, a sense that is also present in Jewish tradition, but has been less emphasized in the psalms. Images of God which are analogous to oppressive human power relationships have been changed or omitted wherever possible. A particular concern emerged regarding the characterization of God as King/Queen and of people as servants. In addition to the discomfort with this hierarchical structure of God and people, some members of the group found it difficult to relate to the concept of royalty. Accordingly, many of these references were omitted or modified, while others (particularly in the case of King/Queen) were retained to accommodate those davenners who feel a connection with these concepts. Along with these concerns about hierarchy, the group certainly acknowledges and treasures metaphors that express the sense that God is unimaginably greater than human beings, and beyond any finite work of creation.

Nearly all the prayers (both Hebrew and English) in Siddur Birkat Shalom have been changed from the traditional to some degree. Though in some cases, only the gender of God and/or humans has been changed, some prayers have been changed more extensively according to the criteria described above. Adaptations may include omission of some words or verses of a prayer, inclusion of other biblical verses within a prayer, or substitution of words in a prayer. In the case of substitutions, care has been taken to use Hebrew words appropriate for the language of the original. As a result, most prayers include the words "adapted" or "mutkan" (Hebrew) in their titles. A few prayers which have undergone major revisions are described as "meditations" rather than "adaptations." The word "meditation" is also used to denote selections in English which are loosely based on a Hebrew prayer, but which are not faithful translations.

An important assumption which underlies all the efforts of the Siddur Project is that the Havurat Shalom siddur cannot be made to order by a committee but, rather, has to evolve. We see our role as generating material to be used by the Havurah community while encouraging the community to determine which adaptations best meet their needs. The members of the Siddur Project are eager to hear and consider all comments and reactions to the various editions of Siddur Birkat Shalom as our community grows and changes.

During our work on the siddur, we were delighted to discover how the prayers changed us even as we revised the prayers. For some of us, this meant broadening our ideas about what kind of changes were acceptable. Others, who had originally been strong advocates of major changes to the liturgy, found more depth and feeling in the traditional prayers. These changes in ourselves allowed us to be more daring about what we were willing to try, knowing that nothing was irrevocable, that unimagined growth could result from our experiments. We hope that the excitement of this discovery will be felt by all those who use Siddur Birkat Shalom, and that all of us will continue to be enriched by the work we have begun, even as we add to our beautiful and profound liturgical tradition.

Notes on Gender Language (updated 2006)

(Section 3 of the following notes is of a more technical nature than the rest of the introduction and is intended for those with a particular interest in some of the linguistic decisions made by the Siddur Project.)

1. Generic: In nearly every language devised by humans, the masculine is used to denote the generic (e.g., "every man" is presumed to be equal to "everyone"). The Siddur Project has chosen to use both masculine and feminine nouns to denote the generic.

2. Historical note on masculine and feminine usage at Havurat Shalom: For most of its history, prayers at the Havurah have used masculine gender referents almost exclusively. The notable exceptions to this practice were the use of "horenu" (our parents), or "avotenu v'imotenu" (our fathers and mothers) in place of the traditional "avotenu," and the inclusion of Sara, Rebecca, Leah and Rachel where traditionally only Abraham, Isaac and Jacob are mentioned.

Although there were many informal discussions about including more feminine language in davenning, and a few experiments along these lines were tried sporadically, the first concerted effort in this direction took place during the spring retreat in May 1984, when the Shabbat morning service was conducted entirely in the feminine. Reactions to the service were generally positive, although some participants felt that use of the feminine-only was as exclusionary as a service conducted entirely in the masculine. Subsequent davenning at the Havurah (at the discretion of the service leader) relied on the traditional (masculine) siddur with some prayers entirely in the feminine on photocopied pages. Beginning in 1986, a small portion of the High Holiday services was adapted and made available in the Havurat Shalom Rosh Hashanah/Yom Kippur Anthology. These prayers had been revised according to the criteria set out in the introduction above. Many leaders of Shabbat davenning chose to use some or all of those revised prayers at appropriate intervals in the service. With the introduction of the first edition of Siddur Birkat Shalom, the number of times it was necessary to switch back and forth between two siddurim was significantly reduced.

3. Feminine future plural verb: In classical Hebrew (the language in which the siddur is written), a unique verb form is used in the future tense for the feminine plural second and third person, (e.g., "t'daberna" — they [fem.] will speak, you [fem.] will speak). This form is now rarely used in modern Israeli Hebrew. Instead the corresponding masculine forms are used for the feminine as well (e.g., "t'dab'ru" — you [masc. or fem.] will speak; "y'dab'ru" — they [masc. or fem.] will speak). In its fourth printing, the Siddur Project chose to return to the classic Hebrew feminine plural verb form. The few instances where this form was not preserved have been footnoted.

NOTE ON THE SECOND EDITION

Thirty-six years after the Havurat Shalom Siddur Project began, we have realized our dream of producing the complete Shabbat morning service, adapted and translated according to our ideology and desires. Much has happened since then: technologies have evolved, some of us have become parents and grandparents, some have passed away, we have developed new sensitivity to the complexity of gender and reference. There were years when the siddur languished, incomplete, as other necessities of life dominated. Nonetheless, we are pleased to present, with this second edition, the Shabbat morning service with inclusion of holiday texts. While completeness is gratifying, there remains much to do: weekday service, Selichot, genderless liturgy selections. Here's to the next thirty-six years!

Talmud Berakot 11a; 60b, Adapted

Blessed are You, Shaper, Source of life, who has created human beings according to Your wisdom, and has given us all the ducts and tubes of our bodies. How well we know, witnessing Your glory, that if only one of them should open or if one of them should close, it would be impossible for us to go on living in Your presence. Blessed are You, O God, who heals all living flesh and creates wonders.

Blessed are You, our God, Source of life, who has made us holy through Your mitzvot, and instructed us to study the words of Torah.

O God, make the words of Your Torah sweet in our mouths and in the mouths of Your people, Israel; may all of us know Your name and study Your Torah for its own sake. We bless You, our God, who teaches Torah to Your people, Israel.

Blessed are You, our God, Source of life, who has created all of us—peoples and nations, communities and families—and has apportioned among us different customs and beliefs.

We ask You, O God, to strengthen within each of us a respect for all human beings in our world and for the diversity of belief. God, how infinite is Your work!

With what wisdom have You fashioned every bit of it.

Blessed are You, God, who creates many paths to righteousness.

May God bless you and watch over you.

May God Who Unveils enlighten you with beauty.

May God show kindness to you and give you peace.

Selected from Leviticus 19:2, 14-18, Adapted

You shall be holy, for I, your God, am holy.

Do not curse a deaf person, or place an obstacle before someone who is blind.

Do not commit an injustice in court,

do not act partially towards the poor or glorify the powerful.

Deal out justice to your people.

Do not stand by passively while the blood of your neighbor is shed.

Do not hate your brother or sister in your heart.

Love your neighbor as yourself. I am God.

Passages from the Talmud:

Mishnah, Pe'ah 1:1; Talmud, Shabbat 127a, Adapted

These are the things for which there are no limits: leaving the corners of the field for the poor, the gift of first fruits, pilgrimage offerings, acts of generosity, and the study of Torah. And these are the things which bear fruit for us in this life and in the world to come: honoring your mothers and fathers, acts of kindness, arriving early for study at the morning and evening service, providing hospitality to travelers, and visiting the sick, providing for the needs of a wedding, accompanying the dead to the grave, reflection in prayer, and making peace between companions. Yet the study of Torah is equal to them all.

Talmud, Berakhot 60b, Adapted

You created it, You molded it, You breathed it into me,

You preserve it deep within me. Someday You will take it from me, and You will return it to me at the end of time.

For as long as my soul is alive in me I will thank You, God my Breath,

God of the mothers and fathers before me,

Sovereign of all things, Source of every soul.

Blessed are You, O God, who returns the soul to the body.

May we always acknowledge truth and speak it in our hearts, and may we arise early each day and say:

Hear, O Israel, YHWH is our God, YHWH is One. Blessed is the name of God's radiant presence forever.

With the strength of Your hand, set free those who are held captive.

Receive the joyous song of Your people; strengthen and purify us, God of reverence.

God of strength, cherish those who proclaim Your unity.

Bless them, purify them, be merciful to them and reward them always with Your justice.

Everlasting Source of holiness, in Your great goodness sustain the people of Your congregation.

You who alone are powerful, turn Your face to those who remember Your holiness.

You who understand the most hidden mysteries, hear our cry for help; listen when we call out to You.

Blessed is the name of God's radiant presence forever.

Pesukei de-zim'ra — Verses of song

Psalm 30, Adapted

David's song for the dedication of the Temple:

I will exalt You, O God; You have raised me up and left me untouched by the gloating of my enemies.

I cried out to You and I was healed.

You have lifted up my soul from death and preserved me from the well of despair.

Sing praise to God, all you who cherish Her; be thankful for the knowledge of Her holiness.

For God's anger lasts a moment, but Her yearning is for life.

Though you may go weeping into the night, joy will wake you with the morning.

In moments of calm I have said to myself, "Not me, I will never be shaken."

But Your grace alone sets me strong like the mountains; if You hide from me I am terrified.

▷ I cry out to You, I implore You to listen.

What good would come of my early death, of my sinking down into desolation?

Will the dry earth praise You and affirm Your truth?

unbind the garments of my sorrow and clothe me in gladness.

Do it that my soul might sing to You and not be silenced.

O God, I will thank You forever.

Psalm 19, Adapted

For those who lead the singing, a song of David:

The heavens tell of God's glory, the skies proclaim His creation.

Day after day these words are spoken; night after night this knowledge is revealed.

There is no speech, there is no language without the sound of these voices.

Throughout the universe they extend; their words reach the ends of the earth.

God sets the sky as a tent for the sun, which leaps up rejoicing like a beloved from an embrace, like an athlete eager to run the course.

From the eastern corners of the sky, through the entire circuit of the heavens, nothing is hidden from its heat.

➤ The Boundless's Torah is perfect, refreshing the soul;

Our Teacher's precepts are trustworthy, making the simplest person wise.

Our Creator's commandments are just, gladdening the heart; the law of the Infinite is clear, opening vision.

Reverence for God is purifying, it endures forever.

God's judgments are true and righteous, all of them together.

They are lovelier than gold, even the most sparkling gold; sweeter than honey and soft honeycomb.

Thus do I care for them and in observing them find great reward.

Who truly understands their wrongdoings? Hold me blameless of the errors I commit in ignorance.

Restrain me in my insolence, let it not rule over me.

Then will I be simple and cleansed of my sins.

May the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart be acceptable to You, O God, my rock and my redemption.

Psalm 33, Adapted

Rejoice in God, you who serve justice;

it is fitting for the righteous to praise Her.

Give thanks to God with the harp; play to Her on the ten-stringed lute.

Sing a new song for Her; make joyful music amid the trumpets.

God's word is right; everything She does is completed with faithfulness.

She loves fairness and wisdom; the earth is full of Her grace.

By God's word the heavens came into being;

from Her breath all creatures were fashioned.

She gathers up the scattered waters of the sea; She guards and preserves the great depths.

Let all the earth revere God, and its inhabitants be mindful of Her.

For She spoke, and the world was born;

She commanded, and it stood firm.

The high words of governments are nothing before God; the thinking of nations measures up to little in Her sight.

But Her wisdom endures forever, the intentions of Her heart are true from generation to generation.

Happy are the people who call God their own and whom God chooses as Her inheritance.

From Her own place She seeks out all the children of humanity, all things that live on the earth.

She forms their hearts, understands everything they do.

A leader is not redeemed by a great army.

Might is not rescued by brute strength alone,

nor will the instruments of deliverance themselves be enough.

And yet, there is God's eye on the one who worships Her, who relies on Her kindness; whose soul is sustained by Her at the time of death and nourished by Her in moments of desolation.

So does our soul wait for God, our help and our salvation.

For in God does our heart rejoice, in the holiness of Her name we place our trust.

Constant One, may Your mercy rise in us as our hopes rise up to You.

Psalm 34, Adapted

A song of David, when he pretended madness to Abimelech, who drove him out.

I will bless God through every season; Her praise will always be upon my lips.

My soul rejoices in Her; let those who are oppressed hear this and take heart.

Come, make God great with me; let us exalt Her name together.

I entreated God, and She answered me; She has rescued me from all my fears.

Those who look to Her are radiant; they will not be put to shame.

I humbly cried out, and God heard me; She delivered me from distress.

God's angel sojourns with the reverent and sets them free.

Behold and delight in Her goodness; happy are we who take shelter in Her.

You who are God's holy people, approach Her with reverence; in worshipping Her, you will lack for nothing.

Young lions may be hungry and wanting, but those who call upon God will be sustained.

Come, draw near and listen to me; I will teach you reverence for God.

Who is it that yearns for life, who would find goodness in the days that are given them? Keep your tongue from speaking insult and your lips from uttering lies.

Turn away from evil and do good instead; seek peace and pursue it endlessly.

Podah YHWH nefesh ta'arog eileha, ve-lo te'sham'nah kol ha-ḥosot bah.

God's eyes are on those who do justice;

Her ears attend their cries for help.

Her face is set against evildoers;

their lives are empty and far from salvation.

They cry out, and God hears them; She delivers them from their pain.

God draws near to the brokenhearted;

sends comfort to those who are in despair.

Many are the misfortunes that the righteous endure, but God's kindness will refresh them.

She watches over their soul, the innocence of their heart.

Those who do evil are made desolate by evil, and those who hate justice will not find it for themselves.

Fortunate is the person who has not sinned; let the one who has, return and be forgiven.¹

The Answerer redeems the soul that yearns for Her; She will not cast off those who seek Her shelter.

Psalm 90, Adapted

A prayer of Moses, man of God.

O God, You have been home to us in all generations.

Before the mountains were born, before the earth, even the universe was created, from beginning to end You are God.

You will return us to dust saying, "Children of humanity, enough."

A thousand years in Your eyes are like a yesterday past, like a night vigil that has come and gone.

At Your hand they flow away, as in a state of sleep.

They are ephemeral as the morning grass;

springing up at daybreak, they wither and fade with the coming of evening.

We are consumed by our fear of Your anger, terrified at the thought of Your rage.

You set our failings before You;

our secret confusions are held up to the light of Your face.

All our days decline in contemplation of Your wrath; our years vanish like a sigh.

Although we may live to be seventy, perhaps eighty granted strength, our best efforts are but toil and foolishness;

they quickly come apart and drift away.

Who can know the strength of Your reckoning?

Who will truly stand in awe of Your displeasure?

May our happiness be measured in proportion to our suffering,

Psalm 91, Adapted

They who abide in God's secret places rest in the shelter of the Most High.

I will say of God, She is my fortress and my protection,

my own, the One in whom I trust.

She will deliver you from the hunter's trap and from the sting of thorns.

She will enfold you in Her arms,

and beneath Her wings you will find refuge.

Her truth is a shield and armor.

Do not be overcome by fear of the night or the arrows that fly by day.

Death that spreads in darkness will not terrorize you,

nor will the torments that burn at noon.

For You, O God, are my shelter.

If you make the Exalted One your dwelling place,

no evil will come to you, no violence will approach your house.

She will give Her angels charge over you to guard you on your journey, to carry you in the palm of Her hand, lest you hurt your foot upon a stone.

You can trample on a lion and a viper, tread on a young lion or a serpent.

She yearns for Me, and I deliver her;

I will exalt her because she knows My name.

They call out to Me, and I answer them,

I am with them in times of anguish. I will strengthen them and bring them to honor, > satisfy them with long life and let them witness My saving power.

I will satisfy them the length of their days

and I will show them My saving power.

Meditation on Psalm 91

I.

I look for the eagle's wings and find myself in the shadow of a butterfly. Is this the shelter of the Almighty?

Will the comfort of evening bring relief from the awareness of noon? I have seemed to rest in angels' hands yet go on stumbling in the road. As I stroke their fingers, I ask, "Are you here to stay? Has God breathed into us and gone elsewhere?"

Should we still flee from wild animals or lie down beside them? And then, will we all be safe? The pestilence seems to be our own.

Surely God will provide a new shelter for us as our old words give way. With a gentle hand She will guide Israel in endless searches through the golden streams of Her holiness. The light still comes from every living source.

A vast tree will protect me from the rain but not from the pounding of my heart. Where are You when we call Your name as witness to our confusion? Why do You never come forward to chasten us? Who is left to teach us righteous ways? Those whom we put before us are the least of us; the best wither in the glances of the powerful.

Have You withdrawn Your shelter? Only the pine tree rests in an angel's hand, collects the sunlight on its thin leaves, on its way to memory. The rest of us walk long journeys toward a great light which can only be our own death. The roaring breath of life stuns us with beauty; the hunters trap us with our losses.

Follow me out of the rain. Wipe away Your tears with our prayer; let Israel comfort You.

III.

The river only seems to flow backwards.

I nestle in the callused hand of earth. I am new life pushing through the soil's crust. I spread my roots downward to vestiges of water, reaching for my Creator. If I am cut back I will emerge in a new place; send a soft, green bud to look again.

I am the fair, pink blossom in search of a bee, seeking to prolong my life against all odds, against the certainty of my death. I have endless flowers for You in my growing center, in the stems and shoots my soul puts out in all directions. Some day my tired leaves will nourish You. Watch out for me; send the red-winged blackbird to bring me home.

Psalm 98, Adapted

Sing to your God, let the song be new. Sing out the wonders He has created, the saving power of His hand and holy arm.

The Listener has revealed salvation and made known justice to all humanity.

He remembers His kindness and faith to Israel.

All the ends of the earth merit God's power.

Be filled with this; let it pour out as song to God, shout it with joy.

Send your voices up with melody;

play on the harps and sound the trumpets before Him.

The fullness of the sea will thunder;

all the living world will echo this praise.

Let the rivers and streams clap their hands,

the mountains sing together in God's presence.

▶ He will redeem the world with justice and the nations with righteousness.

Psalm 123, Variations

1

You have raised up Your eyes to me, O God, You who dwell by the river. Just as the master lifts his eyes to his servant and the lady has reached for the hand of her maid, so do Your eyes look to us; so do You wait for our pity. Are You not sated with our contempt? Have our souls not had enough of indifference and scorn, enough of the boasting of the arrogant? 2 The arrogant and the indifferent, whom do they seek? The servant and the maid, to whom can they raise their eyes? When contempt and insult overflow from one and suffocate the life of the other

Psalm 123, Adapted

A song of pilgrimage:

I have raised up my eyes to You, O God,
to You who dwell in the heavens.

Just as the servant looks to his master,
and the maid looks to the hand of her lady,
So do our eyes look to God;
so do we wait for Your favor.

Take pity on us, O God, take pity,
for we have had our fill of contempt.

Our souls overflow with the scorn of the indifferent and are sated with the boasting of the arrogant.

who can find God dwelling in the heavens?
We who still lift up our eyes are weighed heavy with this.
O God, where is Your pity?
Where is Your pity for those of us who have had our fill?

3

A song of pilgrimage:

I will raise my eyes to You, O God,
You who dwell in the heavens,
You who wander by the river.

Just as the eyes of the weak and the powerful seek each other out, stretching forth their hands, so do our eyes and hands search for You as You have favored us.

Take pity on us, O God, take pity lest contempt and arrogance overwhelm us and our souls are lost to indifference.

Psalm 124, Adapted

A Pilgrimage song of David.

Suppose God had not been with us, Israel would say.

Suppose God had not been there for us,

when they rose up against us...

Then they would have swallowed up our lives with their anger.

Then the water would have crashed over us, would have swept our souls away.

The storm would have washed away our life.

Blessed is God who did not give us up as prey for their teeth.

Our soul is like a bird escaped from a trap;

the net is torn and we have flown away.

We have found our help in God, Creator of the heavens and the earth.

Psalm 92, Adapted

A song for Shabbat:

It is good to give thanks to God; to praise Your name, exalted and supreme.

To tell of Your kindness in the morning, of Your faith at night, with the gentle sounds of the harp and the lute.

Your work has given me such joy,

I will sing out the creations of Your hands.

How Your deeds have waxed full, O God,

how Your intentions have deepened.

An ignoring eye will not be aware of this;

a mind made simple will not understand.

Though cruelties multiply like weeds and works of iniquity blossom and thrive,

the day will come when they will be utterly destroyed.

And You, O God, will stand forth forever.

Though Your enemies are everywhere, everywhere,

yet do they wander without purpose;

their evil deeds will dissipate and come to nothing.

You have awakened the source of my strength;

I am cleansed and refreshed.

With my own eyes I will face that which diminishes me;

when it rises up to me, I will be still and listen.

> The righteous will flourish like the date tree and be strengthened like the cedars of Lebanon.

Rooted in God's presence, they will flower in His doorway, and even in their old age they will bear fruit.

They will be robust and strong, in affirmation of His justice.

God is my strength, my rock; the source of all perfection.

How majestic is God, robed in glory, robed in strength; She sets right the world, it will not be shaken. Your place is firm; from time's birth You are God. The rivers rise up, the river voices rise and sound; the surging oceans roar and pound.

▶ Greater than the din of rushing waters,greater than the power of sea waves breaking,God's limitless power is alive in the universe.

Psalm 146, Adapted

Halleluyah! Hallelnayah!

Praise God, O my soul.

I will praise Her with my life, sing to Her as long as I draw breath.

Put your trust in God, for She endures forever.

She understands our nature, remembers that we are dust.¹

Our last breath departs, and we return to earth.

Happy is the one who looks to the God of Israel for help, whose deepest hope is placed in Her.

For God made the heavens, earth,

and sea, and everything in them;

She guards the truth forever.

She brings justice to the oppressed, offers bread for the hungry.

God frees the captive, gives vision to the blind.

God raises up those who are bowed low and loves the righteous.

She watches over the strangers among us, gives courage to the orphan and the widow.

As God is gracious and compassionate, so shall you be.²

□ I will keep Her before me always;³

may She place me on the path of life.4

God will dwell with you forever, O Zion, with every generation.

Halleluyah! Hallelnayah!

It is wonderful to sing to God,

how pleasing and lovely are the songs.

God rebuilds Jerusalem, gathering in those who are exiled.

and binds up the wounds of their sadness.

He counts the number of stars, calls each of them by name.

How magnificent is God, how full of strength;

His wisdom cannot be measured.

God gives courage to the oppressed

but diminishes those who do evil.

Answer God with thanks, sing to Him on the harp.

As He covers the sky with clouds, He sends rainfall to the earth and causes the grass to spring up on the mountainsides.

He gives food to animals, to the raven's fledglings who cry out to Him.

He has no desire for the might of the horse or human physical strength, but seeks those who revere Him, who thirst for His kindness.

Praise God, O Jerusalem, sing to your God, O Zion, for He has fortified your gates, blessed the children in your midst.

Psalm 148, Adapted

Halleluyah! Hallelnayah!

Praise God from the heavens, praise Her from the highest places.

Praise Her, all Her angels and all Her hosts.

Praise Her, sun and moon, all the stars of light.

Praise Her, heavens above the heavens and the waters above the heavens.

Praise God's name, for She commanded, and all these things were created;

She will sustain them until the end of time.

She declared Her law, and they will not go beyond it.

Praise God from the earth, whales and all life in the great depths.

Her word formed fire and hail, the snow and the mist.

She created the storm-wind, the mountains and the hills, the fruit tree and the cedars, the animals and all living things, reptiles and birds.

The rulers of earth and all the nations, ministers and judges, young women and men, old people and children,

all these will praise the name of God,

for Her name alone is exalted.

Her glory spreads out over heaven and earth.

She will lift up Her strength for Her people and sing praise to all the righteous, to all the children of Leah and Rachel, a people close to Her.

Halleluyah! Hallelnayah!

Halleluyah! Hallelnayah!

Sing to God, sing a new song of praise in the gathering of the faithful.

Let Israel rejoice in its Maker, let the daughters of Zion be glad in their Creator.

Praise His name with dancing, praise Him with the drum and the harp.

For God delights in His people, adorns the humble with strength.

Let those of faith exult in glory, sing songs upon their beds.

Let them praise God with their voices, so that the noise of violence will be heard no more in their land.¹

For the God of holiness is sanctified by acts of justice;²

He is the splendor of all who have faith in Him.

Halleluyah! Hallelnayah!

Psalm 150, Adapted

Praise God in Her holiness, praise Her in the heavens of Her glory.

Praise Her for Her strength and the abundance of Her greatness.

Praise Her with the blowing of the shofar, with the harp and the lyre.

Praise Her with drums and dancing, with stringed instruments and flutes.

Praise Her with the clanging of cymbals, praise Her with the bright noise of cymbals.

Praise God, all my soul!

Let everything that has breath praise God!

Halleluyah! Hallelnayah!

To Her Grandchild a Song at the Sea Meditation

You asked me about the sea; you want to know about that day we crossed the sea... Why talk about that place, it's so quiet here. Plenty of water, grass for the animals cooling shade in the afternoon. Perhaps we'll stay a while, I'm so tired of wandering about. But you asked me about the sea. Yes, I remember, though I try to forget, it was so terrible. In the mouths of our storytellers the sea crossing has become a miracle. It was a nightmare. Dead Egyptians, hundreds of them in the water, I still see them at night sometimes when I close my eyes, when the wind blows in a certain way. Moses promised us a wonderful thing, that day by the sea, but it was terrible. We have a good place here; the animals seem content, the children safe. The children were screaming that day; the wind so strong, the mud so thick we could scarcely walk. The smaller animals stumbled, could not get up; men were screaming at their women, everyone was straining to help the children keep the animals moving. We knew the Egyptians were behind us, but the sand was in our eyes the wind roaring, pounding us, then -- it stopped, for a moment there was nothing; everything was still.

Then a trickling, a rushing of water and then we heard them, Egyptian voices.

They were children's cries.

We saw nothing, sand was heavy in the air but we heard them;

heard the water, the horses neighing.

Our children began to wail again and as the sand settled we saw them in the water, drowned, caught in the reeds.

They were children!

young boys, their uniforms wrapped around their pale, frightened faces.

My neighbor saw her owner's

My neighbor saw her owner's son and I, a palace guard who helped me pack and gave me food for the journey.

Everyone saw a face they knew and such wailing then! It went on and on we were so tired, so frightened.

Where was Moses, when would he take us home?

Then gradually, through the crying,

Miriam's thin sweet voice -- trembling, her tune spun in the air and floated over us.

It was a quieting song,

one we used to sing to our animals in Egypt,

and now she sang it to us

like a shepherd to her frightened goats.

As our fear left us, we began to sing with her;

then Moses took up the song and the men began to chant of victory and the death of the mighty Pharoah.

Well, you know that song, child,

we sing it today, but it has changed some since that time at the sea.

This is a calm, quiet place,

so green, such lovely shade.

If only we could stay here longer.

It's so much like Egypt.

Nishmat kol ḥai t'varech et sh'meich YHVH eloheinu....

[▷] Ilu finu maleh shira ka-yam....ilu ka-yam Let us have songs to fill our mouths as full as the sea....full as the sea.

Nishmat

▶ The breath of all life will praise Your name, O God, and the spirit moving in all flesh will make You glorious forever.

From this world to the next You are God, and without You we have no one else: no other redeemer, no other salvation.

You set us free, You save us for life and sustain us.

You answer us with compassion in times of anguish and distress. We have no one who helps us or nourishes us in the way that You do. God of the first and the last, God of all creatures and all generations,

You are the one who is blessed in every song of praise. You infuse the world with kindness and show mercy to the life You have created. God is awake. She does not rest, nor does She sleep, but awakens those lost in slumber, stirs those who wander in dreams. She gives speech to the silent, seeks freedom for those who are imprisoned. She supports the fallen and raises up those who are bowed low;

She unravels deep mysteries. To God alone we give thanks.

If our mouths were as full of song as is the sea and our speech as full of exultation as the roar of the waves, if our lips could utter as much praise as the wide open spaces of heaven and our eyes could shine forth like the sun and the moon, even if our hands could reach out to You like the eagle's wings spread out to the sky and our feet could run to You, swift as the deer, it would still not be enough. It would not be nearly enough to thank You, our God and God of our mothers and fathers, or to praise Your name for even one thousandth of the thousands and thousands of miracles and wonders that You have given to our fathers and mothers and to us.

You brought us safely out of Egypt, redeemed us from the house of slavery; You nourished us through famine and supported us with abundance.

You rescued us from the sword; delivered us from plagues and brought us through terrible sicknesses. Until now Your mercy has sustained us and Your kindness has never failed us; O God, do not ever abandon us. Therefore, the limbs which You have given us, the breath and the soul which You have breathed into us, the language that You have put into our mouths, all these thank You, praise, acclaim and glorify You. They sing out to You, exalt and adore You, and sanctify Your name forever, Compassionate Mother.

Every mouth acknowledges You, every tongue speaks to You with faith; every eye looks for You. Every knee will bend to You, and all who stand upright will bow down.

All our hearts will seek You with reverence, even the vital organs inside us will praise Your name, from what is written: "All my bones will say: Who is like You, O God?" You save the poor from the oppressor and the helpless from the thieves who would prey upon them.

You hear the cry of the weak; You listen and heed their plea for help. Who is like You and who could be equal to You, who could possibly compare with You, O God, powerful and exalted,

Creator of heaven and earth?

- ▶ We will praise and glorify You, and will bless Your holy name, saying:
- ▷ "Bless God, O my soul;
 let everything that is in me bless God's holy name."

To God who rested from Her deeds on the seventh day, who arose and reclined on the cloud of glory, who dressed in harmony for the day of rest and declared a celebration for Shabbat.

This is the song of praise from the seventh day, when God rested from all Her labor. The seventh day acclaimed, saying: "A song by Shabbat: It is good to give thanks to God."

Therefore, all creatures honor and bless God; they offer praise, value, grandeur, and weight to the living God, Creator of all, who gives the people Israel rest in sanctity on the sacred Shabbat day. Your very name, our God, creates holiness, and Your very mention, our Source, harmonizes in the heavens above and on the earth below.

Bless on, Source of blessing, through the praiseful work of Your hands. Through the lights that You made, they always tell of Your splendor.

Her graciousness is eternal." ▷ Shine a new light on Zion, and help us all quickly become worthy. We bless You, God, Creator of the lights.

For the sake of Your own great name, and for the sake of our mothers and fathers who trusted You as You taught them paths of life that they walked willingly and wholeheartedly, be kind to us also and teach us. Our Father, Compassionate One, feel for us and give our hearts the wisdom to understand, grasp, and discern, to pay attention, study, and teach, to cherish, create, and bring life to all the words of Your teachings, and to acknowledge and respect the wisdom of all Your communities.

Make our eyes gleam with Your Torah; awaken our depths with Your holy spirit, and bring our hearts together in love and awe of Your name so that we may never stumble. Let us never feel ashamed or awkward for trusting in the name that names You great and amazing; we feel joy and pleasure when You rescue us.

Quick, hurry! Bring us blessing and peace soon from the four corners of the earth!

Shatter the yoke that binds our neck and help us walk upright in our land; for You, God, are active in rescue. You love us people and tongue, \triangleright and as our Soulmate You have brought us into intimacy with Your name, so that we may celebrate and unite You in love as we adore Your name.

Know blessing Beloved, as You come close to the people Israel in love.

We continue with the Shema on page 97 in feminine language or page 93 in masculine language.

According to midrash the Torah is black fire written on white fire. This teaches us that there is meaning in both the black written words and the white negative space of the parchment. Here the white fire is foregrounded to reveal hidden names for God - Shechinah, Ein ha Chayim (source of life), Rachamaima (a combination of the Hebrew words of compassion, womb and mother).

Kavannah for the Shema:

Countless visions we have named You Through all visions You are One

Meditation

Inspire our struggle to end all exile, ours, and that of all who are scattered and banished upon the planet, so all can live in dignity, secure in their homes. It is through Your power that we work for freedom, and when we make this our task, we act as You have summoned us, becoming a people of holiness.

Listen Israel, YHWH is our God, YHWH is One. Blessed is God's glorious Name whose domain is eternal.

Love YHWH your God with all your heart, with all your soul and with all your strength. Take these words which I command you today and hold them in your heart.

Teach them to your children; speak of them when you are sitting at home and when you are walking on the road, when you go to sleep and when you wake up. Bind them as a symbol on your hand and place them as reminders before your eyes.

Write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates.

If you truly listen to the words which I command you today, to love and serve your God with all your heart and with all your soul, I will bring rain in the spring, so that you can gather your grain and wine and oil.

Grass will grow in your fields for your cattle; you will eat and have plenty. Be careful not to deceive your heart and turn away to serve other gods and worship them, for God's anger will rise up against you. The skies will be closed and there will be no rain. The earth will lie barren, and you will lose the good land that God is giving you.

And God said to Moses: Speak to the people of Israel and tell them to make fringes on the corners of their clothes, in all generations, and to weave a thread of blue into the fringe at each corner. That will be your fringe, so that as you look at it you will remember all of God's commandments and do them, so that you will not follow the desires of your heart or your eyes, which may lead you astray. Israel, hear that God is One. Blessed is the name of God's radiant presence forever.

Love God with everything you have: your heart, your soul, your strength. These words which I give you here and now, take them to your heart. Teach them to those who follow you. Speak of them often: at home, at work, and on the road; at the beginning of your day and at its end. Hold them like a sacred chant that whispers inside you, spilling out into song. Feel the words in your fingertips, keep them at the front of your mind, in the small space above your eyes. Let them guide your vision to rest in new places; let them soothe and disturb you. Look up occasionally; the words will appear everywhere in the place you call your home.

Israel, your covenant with God is made of choices: holiness or profanity, life or its destruction; you can never keep from choosing. If you set yourself to love God with everything you have, to obey God with your entire heart, God's gifts will be yours: a vital earth, its seas and continents moving slowly in their own way; the rain and sun and snow and clouds forming and changing, each in their own way. If God's unity is always before you, all these will nourish and delight even longer than your days. The hills, the rainforests, the ice floes and the deserts, the infinity of life that nests and grows here on earth with us -- every living thing will bless you, will welcome you as neighbor. What you produce will multiply in goodness, and you will not lack for what you need. But if you forget God and choose instead to fashion gods of your own; if they spring up everywhere for you in your endless thirst for something undiscovered, you may lose everything you have: your family and your sustenance, your reason for being and your place of burial. This blue-green earth, so beautiful, so solitary, is as fragile as you are and as precious. Beware lest in giving way to excess you risk too much. Remember this and take it to heart. Teach it to those who come after you. Place it in their hands, plant it in their minds. Meditate on these things at home and on the road, awake and asleep, in the beginning and at the end. Try to find them in every place we call our home.

And God said to us: Israel, speak with one another. Take action from My thoughts and give voice to the longings of My heart. Choose ways to fashion My laws and to obey them, and in doing so, let yourselves draw closer to your source. Gather up some things that will remind you of Me, things that speak of the earth and the sky, solid and shimmering, light sand and blue air. Perhaps the reeds moving in the wind, a bird's feather and a small polished stone, white narcissus with blue hyacinth. Whatever these things may be, agree upon them. Choose them together and be one people. Love Me, observe My commandments and be holy. I am your God; I have brought you out of Egypt again and again. Seek to know Me; I am your God.

בְרוּכָה אַתְּ יִיָ, גְּאֲלָה יִשְׂרָאֵל:

B'ruchah at YHWH, ga'alah yisra'el.

Prayers become God above all, encircled in blessing.

Moses, Miriam, and all Israel answered You in song and great joy. They all said this:¹

Who resembles You in silence?

God —

Of all we deify, who resembles You?

Who compares to You, outstanding as the Holy, full of awe, awakening praise, creating wonder?

▷ Rescued at the lip of the sea, they sang new praise to Your vast name.
 Together, they thanked You and acknowledged:

The world bears witness: You redeem.

▷ Bedrock of Israel, arise to Israel's aid.Fulfill Your promise, liberate Your entire people Israel.Our Rescuer, Holy One of Israel: Your Name is safety.

Bless on, God; You taught Israel liberty.

^{1.} We offer two translations of this line, one following each vocalization. A midrash suggests the "silence" reading and takes this line as a challenge to God in the face of painful events, such as the killing of the firstborn Egyptians and the drowning of the Egyptians at the Red Sea; the masoretic vocalization and most siddurim follow the "gods" (here rendered "of all we deify") reading.

Ancestors

Blessed are You, our God and God of our ancestors,
God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob, God of Sarah,
God of Rebecca, God of Leah, and God of Rachel.* Great,

Kedusha (Holiness) for Sabbath and Festivals

We hallow and revere You, as in the sweet conversation of the holy Seraphim three times acclaiming Your holiness from what was written by the hand of Your prophet:

"Each calling to each, and saying:

'Holy, holy, holy, YAH of worlds! All the earth fills with Your glory.'"

Then with a great loud sound, they make their voice heard, raising themselves to face the Seraphim, they face them and respond with praise:

"Blessed is the glory of God from His place."

From Your place reveal yourself, and be present with us, for we are waiting for You. When will You be present in Zion?

Soon, in our days, forever may You be present.

May You be made great and holy in Jerusalem,

Your city, from generation to generation, for all time.

And our eyes will see Shechinah, Your Presence, from the words of the songs of Your splendor by David, Your righteous anointed one.

Your Presence will dwell among us forever, your God, Zion, through all generations. Halleluyah, Hallelnayah.

Moses rejoiced in the gift allotted him, for You called him a faithful servant.

The generations of Israel shall keep Shabbat, to make Shabbat an eternal covenant for all their generations. It is a sign between Me and them forever, for in six days God made the heavens and the earth, and rested on the seventh day and was refreshed.

Those who observe Shabbat and call it a delight rejoice in Your oneness. May the people who sanctify the seventh day be fulfilled and delighted in Your goodness. For You have loved the seventh day and sanctified it, calling it precious among days, a reminder of the work of Creation.

Our God and God of our ancestors, be satisfied with our rest, make us holy with Your mitzvot and grant our portion in Your Torah. Let us enjoy Your goodness and rejoice in Your salvation, and purify our hearts to truly worship You.

On Hanukah add:

(For the miracles, for the deliverance, for the triumphs, for the victories, and for the comforts that You did for our ancestors in those days at this season.

In the days of Matityahu son of Yochanan, the high priest, the Hasmonean, and his sons, and in the days of those who kept the faith of Israel, when a wicked Hellenic kingdom arose against Your people Israel, to make them forget Your Torah and depart from the statutes pleasing to You, You in Your great mercy arose for them in the time of their trouble, strengthened their suit, adjudicated their judgment, and vindicated their justice.

You delivered the strong to the weak, the many to the few. You transformed uncleanness to purity, wickedness to justice, evil to acts of Torah, and thereby You expanded holiness in Your world, and for Your people Israel You created great redemption and salvation as on this day. And afterwards Your sons and daughters came to the sacred place of Your house, cleansed Your temple, purified Your sanctuary, lit candles in the courtyards of Your holy place, and established these eight days of Hanukah, to thank and praise Your great name.)

For all these things, may the name of our Source be blessed and exalted forever.

All life is thankful to You, and truthfully praises Your name, God who saves and helps us.

We bless You, God, whose name is good, to whom it is pleasing to give thanks.

During the repetition of the Amidah you may recite:

Our God and God of our mothers and fathers, bless us with this threefold blessing in the Torah written by the hands of Moshe Your servant, spoken from the mouth of Aharon and his sons the priests and from the mouth of the people of Your holiness, as it is said:

May God bless you and guard you

God, make it so

May God make visible to you the divine face, and be gracious to you God, make it so

May God lift up the divine face to you, and establish peace for you God, make it so Grant peace, goodness, and blessing, life, favor, kindness, and compassion upon the world, upon us, and upon all Your people Israel.

Bless us, our Father, all together, with the light of Your countenance, for with that light You gave us the Torah of life and the love of kindness, and righteousness, blessing, compassion, life, and peace. For it is good in Your eyes to bless us and to bless all Your people Israel at all times, at every moment, with Your peace.

(Between Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur say: In the Book of Life, of Blessing, Peace, and Prosperity, may we be remembered and inscribed before You, together with all Your people Israel, for a good life and for peace.)

We bless You, God, who blesses Your people Israel with peace.

Act for the sake of Your name, for the sake of Your strength, for the sake of Your holiness, for the sake of Your Torah, so that Your beloved might be rescued, that Your strength will save me and answer me.

May the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart be acceptable before You, God, my Rock and my Redeemer.

May the One who makes peace on high make peace over us, over all Israel, and over all the inhabitants of the world, and say: Amen.

Meditation on the Amidah

I arise to praise You, my creator; the source of my being, the spark of my soul. Every part of me sings these words, even without my knowing it. My limbs sustain me; my hands find the page in my book; my eyes search; my breath responds. I dream Your dreams with every part of me. I arise here in this place, I am alert. I say You are One and I remember.

Do You remember? Do You remember me?

I come from Sarah and Abraham: I have a steadfast heart.

From Isaac and Rebecca: I am a planner.

From Rachel and Jacob and Leah: I am beautiful and homely, and I struggle with my unruliness.

I look backwards and forwards; I wonder at my mistakes.

I am with every one of my people remembering.

I think up new ideas, and they terrify me.

I grow strong in my resolution.

My rigidity breaks down into hundreds of particles, seeds of promise.

I am the rush of this prayer's breath to Your lips from mine.

And Your words come back to me in unexpected places.

Every bit of life is witness to Your power, cries out Your strength. Yet we understand this with such difficulty and forget it so easily. We are born, grow to maturity and decline. Some of us are cut down too young. But in everything we are left to our own devices, to come to terms with our own small changes. How are we to learn these matters of the heart? And You who are always in plain view, You who are always hiding: You bestow Your power in quantities we cannot measure. Is everything really in Your hands? Is anything? I feel the ache of Your restraint and I long for something I can scarcely imagine.

Your unspoken name is holy. Your unnamed essence is peace. Your radiance is sun pouring down over my head, coming close up against me; moonlight widening my eyes. It is a tangle of woven threads, some colored bright, others subdued, going in every direction, each a surprise. It is ocean around us and vapor rising; the journey of rock -- continuous and scarcely perceptible. It is light in motion before it finds us. The bellowing, croaking, chirping and singing of the world is God's music, all of it. You are the river that overflows its banks carrying washed-away soil to a new place; the earth's decay turned to nourishment.

This work is Your name, Your song. But the moment of perception is our own, Your gift to us. I am looking to sing Your praise with new words but I need You to teach me the tune, one line at a time, so that I can get it right. I know that Your holiness is here and there waiting for us, reaching for our awareness. Sometimes it spins off into darkness only to find its way back again. Your name is peace.

Queen of Heaven, bless us with the light of Your face. Receive our meditation as sustenance and strengthen Yourself for us. Be the new breath we inhale as we give up the old, and may our rest affirm Your faith in us as it does our hope in You. Never leave us alone. Father of Tears, extend Your Shabbat to those who labor without end. Be a small light for those whose sleep is full of fear. Bring all of us, as though we were one, to a new morning. Healing source of life, come to meet us when we pause in the road. And to You who are the spark in me, the origin and the object of my love: be a spirit of joy. Refresh me with the sounds of Your delight, the gifts of life. May these words of mine be graceful to You and worthy of the time they take.

Blessed are You, our God, Source of life, who has made us holy through Your mitzvot, and instructed us to say the Hallel prayer.

Psalm 113, Adapted

Praise Yah;

praise, O worshippers of God.

praise the name of God.

May God's name be blessed henceforth and forever.

From the sun's rising to its setting,

God's name is praised.

God is glorious throughtout the nations,

Her glory is in the heavens.

Who is like YHVH our God, seated on high gazing down through heaven and earth!

She raises the poor from the dust,

Lifts the needy from the dunghill, to dwell with the faithful, with the faithful among Her people.

God turns the troubles of the house to the sound of delight and joy.

Halleluyah.

Psalm 114, Adapted

When Israel came out of the land of Mitzrayim, the daughter of Zion from the people of a different language, the daughter of Zion became God's holy one, Israel became God's dwelling.
The sea saw and fled, the Jordan reversed course.
The mountains danced like rams, the hills like young sheep.
What is it, sea, that you have fled,
Jordan, that you have reversed course,
mountains, that you have danced like rams,
hills, like young sheep?

Tremble, earth, before the Foundation, before the god of Jacob, who turns the rock to a water pool, the flint to water flowing.

Psalm 115: 1-11, Meditation

(On Rosh hodesh and the last 6 days of Pesah omit)

Not to us, God, not to us, but to Your Name give the glory, for Your love and Your truth.

Why should those who worship idols say, "Where is their god?" Our God is close to us; She has done all that She desires.

Do not worship silver and gold,

the works of human hands.

Israel, trust in God! He is their help and shelter.

House of Miriam trust in God! She is their help and shelter.

You in awe of God trust in God! He is their help and shelter.

Psalm 116: 1–11, Adapted

(On Rosh hodesh and the last 6 days of Pesah omit)

I love it when God hears me voice my plea.

For God gave ear to me when in my days I called out.

The bonds of death wrapped around me,

the straits of Sheol found me,

I will encounter trouble and suffering; I will call on God's name:

"I pray, God, deliver my soul." Merciful is God, and just, our God takes pity.

God protects the simple of heart; when I am weak, God saves me.

Return, my soul, to your rest, for God has given me recompense.

For You released my soul from death,

my eyes from tears, my foot from stumbling.

I shall walk before God, in the land of the living.

Yah answered me in the wide places.

God is mine, I shall not fear; what can mortals do to me?

God is mine for my help, and I shall see to my enemies.

It is good to take refuge in God, better than to trust in man.

It is good to take refuge in God, better than to trust in woman.

All that surround me: by God's name I shall bring them to peace.

They encircle and surround me;

by God's name I shall bring them to peace.

They surround me like a swarm of bees, like a fire of thorns, in God's name I shall bring them to peace.

Even if they push me until I fall, God will help me.

Yah is my strength and song, and has become my salvation.

 The sound of song and deliverance is in the tents of righteous men, the sound of song and deliverance in the tents of righteous women, God's hand making peace, God's hand upraised,

God's hand making peace.

I shall not die but live, and tell of Yah's doings.

Yah chastened me, but did not give me over to death.

Open for me the gates of justice, I shall enter them and thank Yah.

This is God's gate, righteous men enter it;

this is God's gate, righteous women enter it.

You have been shown to know that God abides alone, there is no other. There is none like You, God, among those that are worshipped, and there is nothing like Your works.

Your unity is an eternal unity, and Your justice endures in every generation.

God was, is, and will be forever.

God grants strength to His people;

God blesses His people with peace.

Compassionate Mother, may it please You that Zion flourish; build the walls of Jerusalem.

For in You alone do we trust, God, great and transcendent, foundation of worlds.

"Arise, God, and Your enemies will scatter," so that those who oppose You may return to Your presence.
For Torah comes forth from Zion, the word of God from Jerusalem.
Blessed is the One who gave Torah to the people Israel in holiness.

Extol the Name of God, for God's Name alone is exalted.

God's glory is upon the earth and heavens; God lifts up the generations of Israel, extolling the people God keeps close. Halleluyah. Hallelnayah.

A psalm of David. Yield to God, O beings on high, yield to God glory and might! Yield to God the glory of Her name, worship God in the splendor of Her holiness.

The voice of God is over the waters, the God of glory thunders, God is over the great waters. God's voice is powerful, God's voice is majestic. God's voice shatters cedars; God shatters the cedars of Lebanon. She makes Lebanon skip like a calf, and Sirion like a young wild ox. God's voice flashes forth with flames of fire. God's voice makes the wilderness quake;

God makes the wilderness of Kadesh quake. God's voice causes the deer to give birth, and strips the forests bare, and in Her Sanctuary all proclaim, "Glory!"

God was enthroned at the Flood, and God shall be established on Her seat forever. God grants strength to Her people;

God shall bless Her people with peace.

The Torah scrolls are placed in the Ark

▷ When the Ark would rest, Moses would say: God, return and dwell among the myriads of Israel.

Arise, God, to Your peaceful places, You and Your glorious Ark. Let Your priests be clothed in justice; Your faithful will sing. For the sake of David, Your servant, do not turn away from Your anointed.

▶ For I have given you a good inheritance; do not forsake My Torah. It is a tree of life to those who hold it close, and all who support it are enriched. Its paths are paths of pleasantness, and all its ways are peace.

Help us return to You and we will return; renew our days, as You have done of old.

▶ It is for us to praise the Essence of all things, to honor the Hand of creation who gave us a Torah of truth, planting among us eternal life, Who has given us each a unique portion, setting our place with all the nations.

So we bend and bow, acknowledge and give thanks before our Teacher, Source of life, Joy of our hearts, the Holy One of Blessing, who extended the heavens and established the earth, who spreads wings over us, nourishing us with lovingkindness. This is our God, entirely; we are Your beloved; our hearts thirst for You, as it is written in Your Torah: This day you will know that God alone abides in the heavens above and on the earth below, without end.¹

Therefore, we hope, Adonai our God, to witness soon
Your wondrous strength, to remove falsehood from the earth and to transcend idolatry, to rebuild the earth in peace and fellowship, and the world will be filled with the knowledge of God as water fills the sea. For the source of life is with You; in Your light we see light, as it is said: My heart cleaves to You; Your right hand supports me.

Aleinu: A Meditation

It is our duty to honor the Holy One, Blessed Source of all Life, Spirit Guide of the Earth, whose very existence breathes life into the world and unifies all that is diverse. You are revealed to us in the bud opening in the springtime sun, in the raging storm arising in a gentle, summer sea, in the dying red embers of an autumn fire and in the cold gray silence of a winter dawn. You deliver us from the womb into a world of Your creations and are with us as we breathe our last breath. You are the well which nurtures and sustains us all the days of our lives. We seek Your essence deep within ourselves and strive to see Your reflection in all creatures, around, beyond and within the Earth.

You are the spark which kindles hope in the depths of our souls. We pray to be aware each day that our lives are an integral part of the world's creation. We look towards a dawn so brilliant that it will push back the darkness of ignorance and injustice. All around the Earth, hands will reach upward, joining together to build one world and feed one people. On that day, Your presence as the Wellspring of Life will truly be felt by all, on that day and forevermore.

Meditation on Aleinu

It weighs upon us to praise the Maker of all things, the Creator who whispered life into our universe. We do this knowing She did not mold us like other peoples, did not incline us to easily be family among them; but has given us something different, something that has fashioned us, martyred and sustained us. So do we pause and allow ourselves to wonder at the holiest One, the Source whom we bless and sanctify, for nurturing the world and cradling all living things. Her radiance shines from heaven and bubbles up from earth. Her home is in a quiet corner of the perceiving soul. This is God, our beginning and our end; besides God there is nothing more.

Thus do we always hope to catch a glimpse of You and recognize Your majesty for a sign. It would be enough to put evil to flight and our false gods in their place. That time will find all our voices understood and all our knowledge harmony. Your presence will make nurturers and wonder workers of us all, and we will find the right song to sing to You. On that day we will truly see You as One, and Your name will be Unity.

Psalm 27, Adapted

Of David.

God is my light and my help; whom shall I fear?

The Holy One is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?

When evildoers draw near to devour me, my enemies and my foes, it is they who stumble and fall.

Even though an army were arrayed against me, my heart would not fear; though war should arise against me, still I would trust in You.

○ One thing I ask of God, one thing I desire:

That I may dwell in Your house all the days of my life,

To behold Your beauty, and to meditate in Your sanctuary.

Surely God will hide me and shelter me in a day of distress;

You will conceal me in the shelter of Your tent;

You will lift me onto solid ground.

Then my head shall be high above all my foes around me;

I will offer shouts of joy in God's shelter;

I will sing and chant praises to the Holy One.

Hear, O God, my voice when I call; be gracious, and answer me.

To You my heart has said: "It is You that I seek."

Your Presence, O God, I am seeking.

אַל־תַּסְתִּירִי פָּגְיִדְ מִמֶּנִּי,
אַל תַּטִי־בְאַף עַבְדֵּדְּ,
עָזְרָתִי הָיִית,
אַל־תִּטְשְׁינִי וְאַל־תַּעַזְבִינִי אֱלֹהֵי יִשְׁעִי.
מִישְׁינִי וְאַלִּרְתִּעַזְבְינִי אֱלֹהֵי יִשְׁעִי.
וַיִּ תַּאַסְפֵּנִי.
אַל־תִּתְּנְינִי בְּנֶפֶשׁ צְרָי,
בִּי קְמוּ־בִי עֵדִי־שֶׁקֶר וִיפְּחַ חָמְס.

לְּתְמוֹּרבִייְ בְּאֶבֶץ חַיִּים.
וְלַנֶּה אֶל־יִי, חֲזַק וְיַאֲמֵץ לִבֵּנוּ,
וְּקַנֶּה אֶל־יִיְ, חֲזַק וְיַאֲמֵץ לִבֵּנוּ,

Lulei he'eman'ti, lir'ot be-tuv Yah be-eretz ḥayim. n'kaveh el YHWH, ḥazak ve-ya'ameitz libenu, hazak ve-ya'ameitz libenu, u'n'kaveh el YHWH.

Hide not Your face from me;

do not reject Your servant in anger.

You have been my help;

do not abandon me. Forsake me not, God of my deliverance.

Though my father and mother have forsaken me,

God will gather me in and care for me.

Teach me Your ways, O God, and guide me in a just path.

Do not deliver me to the worries of my soul,

to the falsehood and distortions that rise in me,

breathing forth destruction.

I will see the goodness of God in the land of the living.

We hope in God; may our heart be strong and take courage;

We hope in God.

Eden Olam, Adapted

The Foundation of the world was present before any creature was made.

When all had been made by God's pleasure,

then She was named "Shechinah."

When all is completed God alone will be present in majesty, who was, who is, who will be in glory.

She is one, there is no other to compare or to connect with Her.

Without beginning or ending, She has strength and power.

He is my God and living redeemer,
my rock of support in times of trouble,
my guide and my refuge,
the portion of my cup on the day when I call out.

To Her hand I entrust my breath
when asleep and when awake and with my soul my body too,
God is mine, I shall not fear.

Psalm 91, Adapted

They who abide in God's secret places rest in the shelter of the Most High.

I will say of God, She is my fortress and my protection,

my own, the One in whom I trust.

She will deliver you from the hunter's trap and from the sting of thorns.

She will enfold you in Her arms,

and beneath Her wings you will find refuge.

Her truth is a shield and armor.

Do not be overcome by fear of the night or the arrows that fly by day.

Death that spreads in darkness will not terrorize you,

nor will the torments that burn at noon.

For You, O God, are my shelter.

If you make the Exalted One your dwelling place,

no evil will come to you, no violence will approach your house.

She will give Her angels charge over you to guard you on your journey, to carry you in the palm of Her hand, lest you hurt your foot upon a stone.

You can trample on a lion and a viper, tread on a young lion or a serpent.

She yearns for Me, and I deliver her;

I will exalt her because she knows My name.

They call out to Me, and I answer them,

I am with them in times of anguish. I will strengthen them and bring them to honor, > satisfy them with long life and let them witness My saving power.

I will satisfy them the length of their days

and I will show them My saving power.

The following prayer is said silently.

Separate prayers may be said for each individual being remembered.

God, full of compassion, who dwells in the highest places, grant perfect rest beneath the wings of Your Shechinah, among the holy and the pure whose radiance is like the heavens, to the souls of all those whom we remember here today as a blessing, who have gone to their eternal homes.

May their resting place be the Garden of Eden.
Source of compassion, ever shelter them beneath
Your protective wings,

תהלים כ״ג Psalm 23

A psalm of David.

God is my shepherd, I shall not want.

In green pastures God lets me lie down, and alongside calm waters God leads me.

You restore my soul, and guide me in paths of righteousness, for these are Your ways.

Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear no evil, for You are with me. Your rod and Your staff comfort me.

You spread a table before me in the presence of my enemies; You anoint my head with oil, and my cup overflows.

Surely goodness and kindness will follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in Your house for the length of my days.

מִזְמוֹר לְדָוִד: יְיָ רֹעִי, לֹא אֶחְסָר. בִּנְאוֹת דֶּשֶׁא יַרְבִּיצֵנִי, עַל־מֵי מְנָחוֹת יְנַהֲלֵנִי.

נַפְשִׁי יְשׁוֹבֵב, יַנְחֲנִי בְּמַעְגְּלֵי־ צֶּדֶק, לְמֵעֵן שְׁמוֹ.

גַּם כִּי־אֵלֵך בְּגֵיא צַלְמֶנֶת, לֹא־אִירָא רָע כִּי־אַתָּה עִמְּדִי, שִׁבְטְךְ וּמִשְׁעַנְתֶּךְ הֵמָה יְנַחֲמֻנִי. וּמִשְׁעַנְתֶּךְ הֵמָה יְנַחֲמֻנִי.

תַּעֲרֹדְּ לְפָנֵי שָׁלְחָן נֶגֶד צֹרְרִי, דִּשַּׁנְתָּ בַשֶּׁמֶן רֹאִשִׁי, כּוֹסִי רְוָיָה.

אַדְ טוֹב וְחֶסֶד יִרְדְּפְוּנִי כְּלֹ־יְמֵי חַיָּי, וְשַׁבְתִּי בְּבִית־יִיְ לְאִׂרֶדְ יָמִים: בְּבֵית־יִיְ לְאִׂרֶדְ יָמִים:

We wish to acknowledge and thank the many teachers who have helped guide us in our exploration of egalitarian Jewish forms. We thank Joel Rosenberg for proofreading the Hebrew text of the first edition. Rabbi Simcha Kling 'i' generously assisted us with the grammatical adaptation of the Hebrew. Many Jews and feminist writers on religion have informed our thinking. Judith Plaskow is especially appreciated for meeting with us in 1984 and sharing her clarity and courage. We would like to thank Mark Rosen for assisting with laser printing and computer layout of the first, second and third printings. The content of this siddur, however, is the sole work and responsibility of the Havurat Shalom Siddur Project.
